

BARDNI AND THE ITALY REPUBLIC

---

Bardni and The Italy Republic split in a civil war in the early 1900s and continue to have disputes in regards to territorial waters, with overlapping claims. Bardni begins a military exercise in disputed claim area (both countries claim it) somewhat near an island village of The Italy Republic. General Claudio Denis from The Italy Republic, thinking that the village is under threat, asks Bardni to state their intentions, and Bardni military clarifies no ill intent. Despite this, general John Doe opens fire without permission or a direct order from superiors causing 230 million USD in damages and taking the lives of John Augustine and 18 other unnamed military personnel, along with 14 fishermen, who are caught in the crossfire and killed. This is caught on film by villagers on the island of The Italy Republic, as well as recorded evidence by a black box on one of Bardni's planes.